EDITOR'S DESK

In this 1st issue of 1997, there are some changes made in our production of Campfire Light magazine. But firstly, we would like to amend a factual error made in our previous issue. It was reported that Holy Innocent's High won 1st in cannon ball event when the actual champion was Victoria School. Also, due to our inexperience, there was an alignment mistake on page 7. We apologise for these mistakes made.

In this issue, we have included more photos as we feel that pictures can paint a thousand words. We have also replaced 'A page from the past' with 'Memory Lane' where we inserted photos which were from several years back. In doing this, we hope to bring back the memories of the past activities of our scout troop. In this way, we can also pay tribute to those once belonging to our troop and have been supporting us in one way or another.

THE PAST TROOP CAMP

ORIENTATION

Today, our Head of the PE department, Mr. Benjamin Kuok informed us that we had to be down by 1.30pm for our ECA orientation. All of us were very excited as we were told of the various options we had. Most of my classmates had already decided to join NPCC, but I had yet to make my choice. As the councillors brought us to the various ECA booths, I was getting really bored as none of the ECAs interest me. I felt that joining the Chess Club does not allow me to be exposed to the outdoors and the Science Club is really not for me as I needed something which allows me to escape from the school work. So what ECA should I join?

When the councillors led me to the uniform groups, my interest arose. The NCC (Air) unit was great but they had no school activities. The NPCC unit was very well-disciplined but I just hated footdrill. The NCC Land had a lot of information displayed, but I thought that NS is going to be enough. When I reached the Scouts booth, I was greatly intrigued. They were a compromise of everything and the thing about scouts is that I just could not find any bad points about it. They had almost all the information of the school since they were founded and they had interesting articles on equipment like parangs, axes and other equipment which uses I could not comprehend. Then I was led to the pioneering section where structures of gigantic sizes rose before me. Since I have a phobia of heights I did not go up the majestic tower structure. Then, there was archery and flying fox presented by the seniors. I was in awe of the scouts' impressive skills.

Thus, at the end of the day, my decision was to join scouts.

Archery Competition 1997

Ever since archery was introduced to the Catholic High Scout Troop, our scouts have been actively participating in external competitions. On 5th January, the Troop sent a team of 7 Ventures and Rovers to the archery meet organized by the National University of Singapore. Due to the short notice, we only had a few training sessions. However we trained hard under the guidance of our VSL and some instructors from the NTU team.

After a long and arduous wait, the day finally arrived. On the day itself, we met early in the morning at Buona Vista MRT station. Armed with our bows and arrows and a renewed spirit from the night's rest we made our way down to NUS where the competition was held. Our jovial mood did not stop us from concentrating on the competition as we did not want to waste all our efforts and time in training.

The competition began as the archers shot sets of arrows after arrows, and after the first round of shoot, there was yet to be a distinct leader. This is due to the fact that all the archers were more or less of equal standard. After the lunch break, the individual competition continued. It brought out the best in all the archers as they shoot tirelessly under the extremely hot sun. At the end of the individual shoot, Catholic High Scout Troop walked away with the following prizes: a bronze for the Female Standard Individual Event and a Gold and Silver for the Male Standard Individual Event.

But the competition is not to end without the team event. Both the male and female categories were represented in this discipline. However eventhough both teams performed meritoriously, they were unable to walk off with any medals.

The competition ended with the prize giving ceremony and a reception. It was a well deserved reception with lots of food and drinks for all the archers, who have performed extremely well under the hot sun. While for those who walked away with medals, it was an extra bonus for them. We did not perform as well as our last competition but this would not discourage us, instead it was a good experience for all the archers and thus it would spur us to better our results in the next competition.

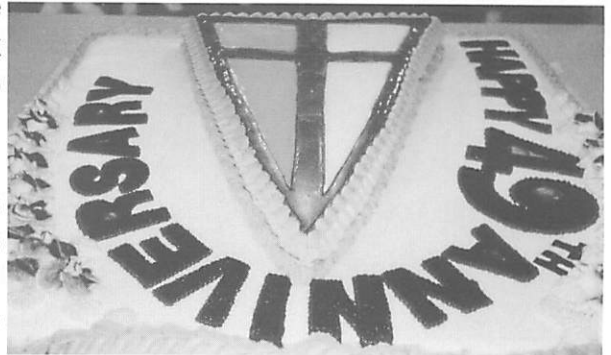

TROOP BIRTHDAY

Today is the Catholic High Scout Troop Birthday and the wolf patrol members were expecting a day of fun-filled activities. Every patrol members gathered at the scout den at noon. Soon after, the SPL told us to assemble at the track and we did as what we were told.

We were told that it was going to be a day of excitement. The SPL and the PLs had a meeting before and had decided on the games to be played later. There would be 5 stations to be completed. We were briefed on what is to be done at each station and told to leave a station the moment we heard the sound of a signal. At our first station, our task was to climb over a wall using three sticks without our hands touching the wall. Our PL asked us to hold the edge of each stick to form a stick ladder. In this way, we could walk up the ladder and jump over the wall.

The next station was at the canteen. The PLs had built a maze using benches and tables. All of us had to take off our shirts and use them to blindfold ourselves to walk through the maze. We had to pretend that we were at the enemies' base and when the alarm rang, we would have to go on our knees. The PLs also poured cold water on us. At the third station, we had to climb on the edge of a wall to send the scouts over to left while the APLs to the right. It was a difficult task because all the APLs were on the left side of the wall. However, after much effort, we could not make it and it was time to go to the next station. At the next station, we had to scale a wall. But before we started doing it, the PLs taught us the technique to scale it. Fortunately, those who could not make it had a helping hand from the other patrol members. At the last station, we had to do pull-ups and those who could not do it failed the test.

When we assembled at the end of all the five stations, we cheered for Dolphin Patrol which was the best patrol, and also for the other outstanding patrols. Then, we had our lunch and cut the birthday cake. We took a troop photo together with the cake which was in the shape of our troop badge. It was a fun day because of the games we played and also a memorable one because our Troop had turned 49!

Night Investiture

The sun was beating down on my back, dust swirled as I walked through the sand. Distant chatter could be heard as I approached the scouts territory.

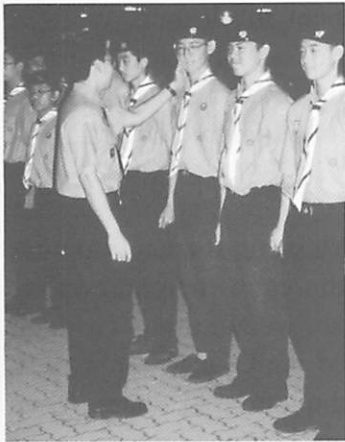

At three in the afternoon, those involved in the footdrill course left for the Founder's Square to attend the course. I was one of those involved, and luckily for us, the instructors Weixin, Xinyuan and Leon were in a jovial mood. While the rest of the troop were interacting by playing competitive games. The "doomed" candidates were busy doing physical exercises. Not to mention Weilong's strengthening purposes!

The pre-reckoning period came when it was dinner time. Ventures were stationed behind sinister steel like boxes and armed with tongs, the scouts were prepared to face the venture food squad. The funny tradition that has been going on in this whole organisation is that no matter what your size is, double helpings will be "forced" on your plates. After dinner, everybody assembled at the Founder's Square. The special addition to the horseshoe was a thick rope placed in the middle of the horseshoe.

The atmosphere was mingled with both joy and sadness. All the would-be-post holders were very excited and looked forward to receiving their ranks and positions, but, at the same time sad to see the sec. fours leaving the patrols to be ventures. The sec. ones were invested with all glory and honour with the patrol leaders at their side. My heart was pounding, sweat dripped from my face and my legs nearly gave way when my name was announced.

Next came the new patrol leaders. Beaming smiles could be seen on the ex-patrol leaders' faces. I was secretly hoping that the newly appointed leaders would bring the troop to greater heights. The APL badge came next, smartly marching in to receive their single bar. The remaining sec. twos joined the rest in front of the grand formation to receive the troop scarf.

It was a moment of awakening for finally, the sec. twos discarded their childishness and were prepared to take up responsibilities as seniors.

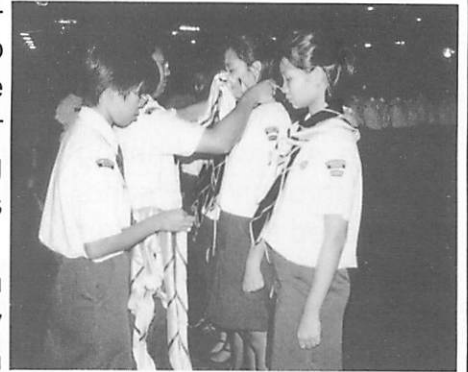

The spotlights were on the sec. fours as they marched out for the step-up ceremony. Each sec. four were lined up behind the rope and with dignity, each step across the rope. The "slapping ceremony" was also at hand and the new ventures each received a slap from the Scout Leader and Venture Scout Leader. The tradition "yarn" was related by our Venture Scout Leader- Weilong and personal training experiences and success stories were exchanged. It was also a time for the newly appointed Senior Patrol Leader to give his speech..

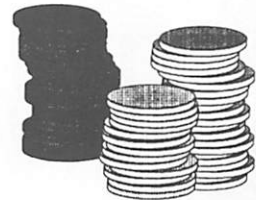

Stalking was the following activity, each patrol had to follow instructors around with each clue they dropped, the location of the final destination was slowly revealed. My patrol was lucky at the first few stages as we managed to outsmart our instructors. Our forfeits were merciless after we were caught as the instructors were also quite frustrated. Anyway, our final destination was in one of the cemeteries near the Youngberg Adventist Hospital. The leaders wanted all of us to walk in pairs through the cemetery. I must admit that it was quite an experience.

The final stage of the day was the run. The scouts had to run back from the cemetery to the school. It was a mind over body experience. The sec. four ventures still had to go for their ten kilometre run for a test. Everybody was dead beat, but happy as we all felt as if we had accomplished something major in our lives.

Job Week 1997

Day 1

When our venture leader briefed us on job week, we immediately reflected back on our past years' achievements. Nevertheless, all of us were aiming to break the previous records and be the top earners.

Finally, we set off to accomplish our task. I followed my PL to Six Avenue. We were lucky to get our first job there. Our task was to clean a two storey bungalow. We put in our effort in cleaning the dirty bungalow which was just renovated. Although a total of three hours were spent to clean it, we were contented and satisfied with our work when the owner of the house took out a few fifty dollars notes. However, he told us to wait while he went in to get change for three ten dollar notes. We were stunned but there was nothing we could do. For the rest of the day, we managed to earn about two hundred dollars.

Day 2

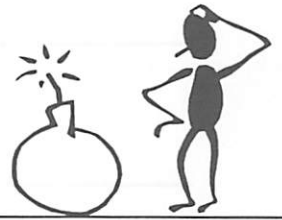

The secondary one, two and three scouts fall in at 7am in the morning. We were then split up into groups. Each Sec. 2 will take three Sec. 1s. As for Sean and myself, we took Valdmond with us and walked around Thomson Plaza. There, we spotted some private houses, but to our surprise, we did not get a single cent from them. Fortunately, Sean spotted some flats at a distant and we started walking towards them. There were lots of jobs for us. And by the end of the day, each of us had earned about ninety dollars. As for Samuel and the rest of the Sec. 1s, they were not as lucky as us. They had their faces slammed by the door on their first attempt. All the rest of their chances were snatched away by other Scout Troops. They had earned only fifty dollars each at the end of the day.

Day 3

This day was not as good as the previous one. Many were seen all over Singapore fighting for jobs. As we were keen on earning more money to meet the target set by the group, we asked for donations. By 8pm at night, we had only earned about sixty dollars on the average. That marks the end of our job week.

War Games

Saturday, 29th March 1997, was not any normal meeting for the scouts of Catholic High Scout Group. It was the day of a battle between the ventures, rovers and scouts at Upper Pierce Reservoir.

We were gathered in school by 0900 hours, each scout and venture armed with their own weapons--water guns, all of which were in good condition. The rovers, on the other hand, were equipped with water bombs. In order to gain advantage in the battle, we camouflaged ourselves using green and brown camou sticks. Ventures instead drew a "V" on their cheeks, and the rovers, a "R".

After arriving at our "battle zone" at Upper Pierce Reservoir, we were briefed on the rules of the game. Each of us was given a rubber band which was an indicator of our life. If the rubber band was taken from us, we would become prisoners of the ventures and rovers. Pieces of paper were hidden in the forest and the scouts had to tear those pieces of paper to get points in order to win the battle. At the same time, we had to ensure our "survival" by safeguarding our rubber bands. Our only obstacles were the ventures and rovers defending the "fortress" and the "treasures" hidden within. Armed with our powerful weapons, we went all out in attacking the ventures. But, being inexperienced, we did so without any prior planning or strategy. Thus, although we outnumbered the ventures, we lost the first attack and many of us lost our "lives". So, Miss Pang called all of us back and gave us new rubber bands, which represents our "lives". So, with new hopes and determination, we formulated a strategy and off we went. We all fought our best, and it was sure a tough fight. But again, we lost to the dominating ventures.

Before the third attack, Miss Pang thought of an idea so that the scouts could beat the ventures. So, she told us to drop our weapons and just wrestle our way through the "Venture Barrier". Well, we won!!! The ventures, supposedly being the "strong soldiers", actually lost to us! This was probably because we had a large army of "soldiers". Anyway, we broke the line of defence and went into the fortress and tore all their papers (which was the treasure).

After the battle, it was time to go back to school. Tired but happy, the scouts left the "battle zone" and returned to school. Even though we enjoyed ourselves thoroughly today, we were still aware of the values taught to us through this war game. We learnt, through experience, that unity is strength, and prior planning would prevent poor performance.

Combined Meeting 1997

5th April was indeed a memorable day for both the Catholic High Scouts and Saint Nicholas Guides. All the scouts gathered in school at 7am sharp to make the necessary preparations.

All the scouts, ventures, rovers and leaders boarded the bus and by 8am, all of us were on our way to Sembawang Sea

Sports Club. All of us reached the club at about 8.30am. The scouts and ventures quickly fall in to their respective patrols to wait for the guides' arrival. Soon the guides arrived and by 9am, the scouts and guides were in their respective groups. This year, 8 scout patrols and 14 guide patrols were combined and renamed. The new patrols were Seal, Snapper, Whale, Swordfish, Manta, Starfish and Eel. Our instructors introduced themselves and briefed us on the rules and regulations. This was followed by the moving of canoes by scouts and guides to the beach before they were dismissed for lunch.

After a fulfilling lunch, we were supposed to canoe to Seletar Island. Several canoes capsized on the way despite efforts made to keep them upright. Thankfully, there were only a few casualties.

The scouts and guides reached Seletar Island within half an hour. The various patrols then played different games. Later at about 2.30pm, the scouts and guides canoed back to the Sea Sports Club. As usual, quite a number of canoes capsized on the way which had made the instructors busy for they had to upright them.

The scouts washed and carried the canoes back to the shed immediately after they reached the beach. Paddles and life jackets were washed by the guides. As soon as we had finished cleaning up, we gathered for a photo-taking session. Momentous were exchanged between the scouts and guides before they left at 4pm. Before the bus arrived, we had a short rest.

By 5pm, the scouts were back in school and were given time to bathe. They were then dismissed at 5.30pm. It was a tiring but a happy day for all the scouts.

GROUP CAMP

The first programme of the camp was Camp development. We had to pitch our tent, build the gateway and gadgets until lunch time. Lunch time was a combine effort, the girl rovers did the cooking while the ventures did the washing..

The programme which followed next was the Initiative game. The Ventures and Rovers were divided into 2 groups. There were a total of 6 stations and the objective of the game was to polish up our various skills and to give the president scouts candidates an opportunity to put their leadership skills into use. We had fried fish and kang kong for dinner.

The night programme was the Night Hike and we were supposed to walk about 15 km to Kranji with a total of 4 checkpoints along the way. Our starting point was at King Albert Park while the Ventures started from Catholic High School itself. On our way to the first checkpoint, the moral was extremely high as everyone was still fresh and awake. It did not take us long to reach our first check point as the distance was quite short. We were then required to sketch the area out. Our PL continued in leading us to our next checkpoint. The morale then was still very high but idle talk and jokes were reduced to a minimum as we were trying to conserve energy. Upon arrival at our next checkpoint, we started feeling a little tired and needless to say, we drained practically half of our water ration. During the hike at about midnight, we were approached by policemen patrolling around Woodlands enquiring about our activity. We had our ups and downs but with the encouragement from each other, we managed to make it to our destination safe and sound by 2am. We spent our night at Kranji Dam and made our way back to our campsite early the next morning.

On the second day, we had our breakfast and prepared for inspection when we were back at campsite. The following activity according to schedule was the Venture Obstacle Course. We were divided into five patrols each headed by a President Scout candidate. At each of the five stations, we were given scenarios which required us to apply our first-aid, initiative and leadership skills. At the same time, we had to do some 'acting' and keep up the patrol spirit. At the end of the VOJ, we had evaluation on our performances and soon after, the Ventures and us went to collect firewood for backwood cooking.

On our return, we had lunch and started to prepare for backwoods cooking and survival killing. All the scouts were assembled for a demonstration of how to slaughter various animals, namely the turtles, frogs, python and rabbit. All of us were curious about how the procedures would be like and as it turned out, it went on with the scouts riveted with the happenings.

The first to meet their fate were the frogs. Every patrol was given a chance to kill and skin the frogs. As they held the green slimy creatures in their hands, ready to kill them, many put up their bravest front, eager to prove their courage. Next was the python. It was strangled using a rope and then skinned half alive. Those who were holding it got their hands soaked in blood. The rabbit and turtle were consecutively finished off quickly. Before we knew it, there were pots of steaming hot exotic delicacies ready for consumption. For many of us, it was also the first time we saw the animals in a "before and after" state. Together with the food from our backwood cooking, we had a sumptuous dinner.

Our game for the night was thieving. The various patrols were to secure a territory to put their 'stolen goods'. The game consisted of 2 rounds, after each round, the instructor were supposed to total their scores. In the process, tables, chairs and other items which could be found in the school were skillfully uprooted from their original places and found their way to the patrol's territory. Forfeits were imposed on "thieves" who were caught "red-handed". Eventually, the "Beggar Sect" emerged as the winner of the game.

On the third day, we had the Venture Standard test where we were supposed to learn skills that every Catholic High Scout should be equipped with. This included various rope-climbing methods, first-aid skills and the use and maintenance of equipments from the Quarter master store. We left for Challenge Valley at six and we went to a drain outside Bishan ITE. One by one, we entered the drain. It was dark and the place was filled with spider webs, slime and mud. We had to duck-walked all the way out to the big canal just behind the Bishan MRT Depot. Everybody was soaked on the "mineral enriched" water. There, we were faced with curious stares from joggers from the Bishan Park.

The simple, yet heartwarming campfire was declared open by our Assistant Scout leader. The emcees did a wonderful job of hosting and soon all of us were fully engrossed in singing and humming to the rhythm. The scouts enacted in their sketches violence and aggressiveness in their kungfu which corresponded to our camp theme-Pugilistic era. Soon, the campfire came to a close and we ended it off with a scout hymn.

We had backpack inspection after the physical training and breakfast on the forth day. Soon after the inspection, we immediately struck down our tents. We did area cleaning and had evaluation. Finally, after the presentation of awards, we were dismissed.

SCOUT RALLY

During the Scout Rally 1996, all the Scout Groups assembled in the Yio Chu Kang Stadium and each waved their own flag. When all the Scouts Groups had arrived, the National and Scout flags were raised. After the flag-raising ceremony, the Guests of honour arrived. We were told earlier that they were actually Scout leaders from other countries. Then they proceeded to make their speeches one by one. It was very hot that afternoon in the field and we were very uncomfortable. Fortunately, drinks were given out to quench our thirst and we listened attentively to the speeches. After the speeches, the Scout Groups were divided into half and we cheered against each other to see who could cheer the loudest. There were many songs that followed but we could not recognise most of the songs and just hummed to the tune. It was really embarrassing, and for those songs that we knew, we sang as loud as we could.

Next came the prize-giving ceremony, and we cheered loudly for our troop which won awards for the cadet scout, scout and venture units. Later, there was a lion dance to welcome the guests-of-honour and to thank them for their presence. This lion dance was special as it consisted of four lions which jumped on each other and performed many other stunts. Finally came the dragon dance which was very good indeed. It was amazing how the dragon twisted and turned its body. It even did a few loops! The many bright and beautiful colours added to the splendour. After the dragon dance, there was a flag ceremony where the flags were lowered to mark the end of the Scout Rally. There was a silent downpour and by the time the bus came, we were all soaked to the skin. We went back to school and was soon dismissed.

去尼泊尔旅行，其实是个很突然的决定。本来是说好要去西藏，后来不知怎的又决定去尼泊尔爬山，又找人一起去旅行。等到一切搞定时，已经接近考试了。考完试后，又得匆匆忙忙去接背包，买爬山的配备，鞋子，衣服等等，还得去把三个免疫针。要去一趟旅行还真的不少东西要准备呢！不过，这一切都是值得的。

出发当天，我们先飞去了尼泊尔的首都：加满都。在那里先待两天。参观了建在山上的一座猴子庙。顾名思义，猴子庙就是整个庙都饲养猴子的。这猴子

到处跑来跑去，吃人们供奉给神灵的食物。在这猴子庙隔壁又是另一间鸽子庙，真是一大奇观。由于尼泊尔的邻国就是中国与印度，所以他们的人民有的信奉兴都教，有的则信奉佛教。而且那里还有不少西藏人信奉他们自己的藏教。

两天后，我们就要开始爬山了。只不过，说爬山并不马上就爬山的。我们在KATHMANTHU坐一个早上的巴士到POKHARA。在那坐一个下午的德士，然后再走一个多小时左右的路程才到达我们的出发点BRIEHEENTI。到那里时天色已黑了，过了一夜才整装出发。我们准备前往ANNAPURNA BASE CAMP，足足有超过4500M。如果我没记错，相信新加坡只在低于100M左右罢了。

沿途的行程都有路可循，应该不算难走。但对我们这些娇生贯养的新加坡人来说，却是相当辛苦的。由于水土不服，山上空气稀薄，加上有些队员中了高山症，开始感到头晕脚软，

又上吐下泻。虽然准备了一些药，却似乎帮不上什麼大忙。就这样，没病的照顾病的，病好的又照顾开始病的，一路上几经艰苦，才爬到了我们的目的地。不过，当要到达目的地时，大家的病都似乎好转了，这也许就是高山所能带给人们的力量吧！说真的，当你到达这么高的地方，再俯视下去，这种成就是难以形容的。

的是，你的胸襟会更开阔，不会为了一点小而发怒，而且你也会更珍惜你身边的人。最重要的，你必须生活在新加坡是幸福的。所以，如果经济与时间容许，大家应该考虑出国走走。因为走多，看多，学更多。

Scouting in Germany - DPSG

It's a little bit difficult to describe Scouting in Germany, as there is nothing like the Scouting here. In Germany there are about 40 different Scout-Organizations. Three of them belong to the WOSM, which are the BdP (Bund der Pfadfinderinnen und Pfadfinder), VCP (Verband Christlicher Pfadfinder) and DPSG (Deutsche Pfadfinderschaft St. Georg).

I belong to the DPSG and so I only want to describe the DPSG, as I'm not so well informed about scouting in the other organizations.

Please excuse me, if you read some German expressions. These are something like "german-scouting-specific", so there is no way to translate them to english (or too difficult for me :)

 THE DPSG  (Deutsche Pfadfinderschaft Sankt Georg)

1.) History

The DPSG was founded at 7th Oct. 1929. In 1931 the DPSG had 9.000 members. The DPSG worked on the ideals of BP. From 1933 - 1938 the DPSG had to fight against oppression through the NS-Regime. Some of their members were killed in KZ. In 1938 the DPSG was forbidden by the government. But some scouts didn't join the HJ Hitlerjugend) which adapted the methods and outfit of scouting but had absolutely different goals! These scouts worked in the underground 'til 1945. In 1950 the WOSM made the RdP (Ring deutscher Pfadfinder, which today consists of BdP, VCP, DPSG) a member. Since this time the DPSG works active in scouting and now has about (I guess) 80.000 members and is the largest german Scouting organization.

2.) Structure

Most of the action happens in a Stamm (to be compared to a troop I think).

Here you see the structure of scouts in Germany:

Scouts from 8 - 11 years are called the WOELFLINGE.

Scouts from 11 - 13 years are called the JUNGPFADFINDER.

Scouts from 13 - 16 years are called the PFADFINDER.

Scouts from 16 - 21 years are called the ROVER.

Scouts older than 18 can become LEADERS.

Normally the groups meet once a week and do some camps in the year

Knots

Spanish Bowline

Begin by doubling a bight under the center of rope, crossing the end and forming two loops (fig.1). Draw each strand up through the loop to form two extended bights as shown in fig.2.

Each bight must then be twisted in an outward direction. This is easily done by whipping them with the thumb and forefinger of each hand and turning them away from each other. A half twist puts them in position (fig.3).

Now, take each side of the lower loop. Draw this upward so they pass over and then under the strands that compose the upper loops, exactly as shown by the arrows in fig. 3.

Pull the center knot tight, retaining the loops in their extended fashion. This forms the two-looped Spanish Bowline (fig.4). Inverted, it is gripped at the end, so that the loops dangle and can be used for lifting purposes.

Recipe

TOAD IN THE HOLE

You will need : (quantities are for four servings)

- 150g flour
- 1 egg
- half a pint of milk (approx.)
- 60g margarine
- 8 sausages
- pinch of salt

Method:

- Mix the flour, salt and egg together, adding the milk slowly until you have a smooth batter (it may not be necessary to add the full half pint of milk)
- Place the sausages and the margarine in the baking tray or home-made bowl and place in your camp oven for 15 minutes
- Pour your batter over the sausages and return to the oven for about half an hour or until the batter is a golden brown
